Andrew Mantle

Professor Bailey

GIT-215

December 2, 2024

HTML Final Testing

When I tested my website in Microsoft edge, I did not see to much of a difference compared to chrome. The only major thing that I saw was that there was a white border around my page in Edge vs nothing in chrome. I think that is because of how the browser is set up versus the styling.

When I tested in Firefox the biggest difference, I noticed was how my colors looked a little off. Also, some of my styles for my form were not there. It seems like chrome is a bit more forgiving when it comes to following coding rules.